To become a Registered Parliamentarian (RP)*:

Contact any MAP or NAP member about your decision

Currently, members have 2 options to obtain their RP (via Legacy System; or through the New RP System)*

Option #1 = RP Credentialing (Legacy System)

Resources needed:

- Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised (11th edition), cited as RONR.
- Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised in Brief, (2nd edition), cited as RONRIB.
- Recommended: Parliamentary Law (1923) by Henry Martyn Robert-$50 US.
- RP Study Guide-1200 questions ("In Order")-$29 US.

Study all Parts contained in the RP study guide, namely:

- Part I - Research (Search and Find Exercise-5 quotes).
- Part II - Motions (400 questions on 56 pages).
- Part III - Meetings, Sessions, and Conventions (325 questions on 47 pages).
- Part IV - Officers, Elections, Voting, Boards & Committees (325 Q's on 45 pages).
- Part V - Role of the Assembly (150 questions on 22 pages).

NAP exam: A minimum grade of 80% on Part I and 85% each on Parts II, III, IV, and V.

It is recommended members attend our monthly study groups, especially RPSG.

When you are ready, schedule a date to write your RP exam [On-line or Paper Form]:

- Write all 5 parts at one time (300 questions) [$150 US] or:
- Take the exam in Parts* (any combination) [Part 1 is $25; and Parts II, III, IV, or V: $50 each]*
- Take exam at any NAP event; or contact any RP or PRP in MAP to monitor RP Exams.

Note: After you complete your first set of exams, you must complete any remaining Parts in 9 months.*

Option #2 = RP Credentialing (New System)

Resources Needed:

- Study Guide is the Criteria for Credentialing booklet (free download from NAP)
- Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised (11th edition), cited as RONR.
- Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised in Brief, (2nd edition), cited as RONRIB.
- Professional Practices in Parliamentary Procedure, cited as PPPP-$32 US.
- Parliamentary Playbook—A Guide to Script Writing, cited as Playbook-$25 US.
- Recommended: Parliamentary Law (1923) by Henry Martyn Robert-$50 US.

Q. What do I need to do to become an RP under the new system?

In brief, successfully complete three steps:

Step One*: Seven online 40-question quizzes, each of which has a 60-minute time limit and evaluates the ability to apply a different category of commonly used parliamentary rules, and an eighth “open book” quiz of 17 individually timed questions that evaluate a candidate’s ability during a meeting to quickly look up and advise how to apply less commonly used rules.

During Step One, most of which will be automatically graded by the online software (a “learning management system” called Schoology), if in the first version you take in a Part you don’t get at least 34 of the 40 questions right in each of Parts 1-7, or 20 points out of the 27 possible for the 17 questions in Part 8, you will be encouraged to take a second version after going over what you got wrong and doing some extra study. (The software will tell you the correct answers for the questions you missed.) If needed, you’ll have still another opportunity with the third version.*

Step Two*: Several written assignments (all “open book”) demonstrating skill in performing the things a parliamentarian should be able to do outside of meetings, like drafting bylaw amendments, answering parliamentary questions, providing workshops, and preparing scripts, and a teaching demonstration.

For Step Two, you’ll be working with evaluators who will give you feedback, and as needed provide you with repeated opportunities to succeed part by part.*

Step Three*: The capstone: serving as parliamentarian during a meeting simulation.

For Step Three, you’ll get feedback from evaluators, and if you don’t successfully complete the first meeting simulation, there will be two additional different versions available to give you other chances.*

Q. How long should the process take?*

With the possibility of extensions in certain circumstances, while the new system is in testing mode RP candidates have:

–270 days to successfully complete Step One;

–180 days after completing Step One to successfully complete Step Two; and –90 days after completing Step Two to successfully complete Step Three.

Candidates are encouraged to attempt to complete each step substantially in advance of its deadline, bearing in mind that the longer the period a candidate takes to complete the process, the greater the chance that what was earlier learned may to some extent fade from memory by the time it is again tested by a later stage.*

It is anticipated that most candidates will be able to complete the process in much less time.*

The date of beginning candidacy shall be deemed to be that on which the member is sent login and other info necessary in order to begin attempting RP Step One, Part 1 on the Schoology learning management system.*

RP Credentialing (New System)

Costs: RP exam application fee: $150 US.

Q. What's different from the 1200 Question-based Registration Exam in what will be tested under the new system?

First, while the 1200 question-based exam is designed to test knowledge of all the rules in RONR, Step One of the new system expects candidates to know from memory only a specified subset of those rules that the Commission judged would be most commonly used in ordinary meetings. Moreover, the focus is on evaluating the ability to apply, rather than just know, the rules being tested.

Second, while under the 1200 question-based system, the RP exam tests book knowledge and the PRP evaluation process deals with the practical ability to serve as a parliamentarian, we know that many RPs are in fact serving clients, even when not for pay. Consequently, the new RP evaluation has been constructed to cover important aspects of actually providing services as a parliamentarian for ordinary meetings in common circumstances, while the PRP evaluation will cover more challenging and unusual parliamentary situations.

Educational Renewal Requirements-Registered members need to acquire 20 continuing education units (CEUs) within a six-year designated period in order to retain registered status.
